

So, does a contribution to the PAC really make a difference?

Yes! Consider it an investment in your credit union's future. Your membership in the PAC produces real political power. Protecting credit unions and the members we serve can't be done without demonstrating commitment. When you and your colleagues contribute to the PAC, it serves as a constant reminder to elected officials of the importance of the credit union community. Our fight to protect credit unions continues today.

To Put it in Perspective...

If Georgia CUPAC/CULAC offered the maximum contribution allowed by law to each and every Georgia congressional and state legislator each election cycle, we would have to raise over 1.2 million dollars. And although we are nowhere near this mark...

EVERY LITTLE BIT HELPS!

The advocacy staff at Georgia Credit Union Affiliates is always available to answer questions about federal and state PAC laws. They can offer ideas for fundraising events and help make sure events are in compliance with state and federal guidelines.

WHY FUNDRAISING IS IMPORTANT

Fundraising

In 2007, there were over 7,500 people contributing to GA CUPAC/ CULAC, with an average donation of less than $25.00. Just imagine the message credit unions could send if the 4,000 plus credit union employees, over 2,000 volunteers and more than 1.71 million credit union members participated!

Government activity at both the state and federal level has a direct impact on credit unions, and a strong political action committee is integral to an effective advocacy program. Your participation in the political action process will help shape public policy so it reflects the needs of credit unions and their members.

Here in Georgia, we donate to two PACs: GA CUPAC to fund Georgia activities and CULAC to fund federal activities. The PACs send a powerful message of unity on behalf of credit unions by allowing contributors to pool their donations with those of thousands of their peers in Georgia and across the nation. By helping to elect people who care about credit unions, our message is clearly heard by elected officials, their staff and political leaders in both Georgia and Washington D.C. These dollars are combined to create one single powerful voice.

Every little bit helps

Why Contribute to GA CUPAC/ CULAC?

Credit Unions have to fight to protect the interests of our members so that credit unions aren't legislated into becoming for-profit institutions or crippled by stifling legislation. The continued pressure from profit-seeking bankers has policy makers re-examining and questioning the long-standing legislative interpretation and intention of laws affecting credit unions. For this reason, we must present a strong unified voice in the halls of Congress and the Georgia General Assembly, and this is accomplished through contributions in support of GA CUPAC/CULAC.

Our efforts are concentrated on raising money for GA CUPAC/ CULAC to establish valuable relationships with legislators who support issues important to our industry.

Who can contribute?

Affiliated credit union executives, administrative personnel, volunteers, the board of directors, committee members, their families, members, and anyone who supports your credit union!
